BUILDING POST OFFICES

A Sarcastic Criticism of the Government's Building Methods

One of the favorite diversions of the government is to erect post office buildings. Many hundreds of the edifices have been begun in the last half century and almost all of them are not complete.

Post office buildings are almost all magnificent affairs, but this cannot always be discovered by looking at them. One should look at the appropriation in order to make sure. An appropriation of $200,000 for a post office building is a sublime and splendid thing, but the building itself it usually neat, uncommodious and designed in a way to give an architect queer and almost unbearable pains.

Two hundred thousand dollars will build a ten-story skyscraper for a private citizen. But when spent for post office buildings it will only build a modest coop, for which $75,000 more must be appropriated in order to add front steps and a door knob.

The reader must not infer from these remarks that the government is swindled by dishonest contractors. This is far from being the case. The government is merely particular. It loves to build massive granite cellars and cut stone stairs and it is never happy except when having the highest possible price. If the government were to build a dog house for the postmaster general, it would first select a site as far as possible from the dog's haunts and would then erect a magnificent structure ten feet square at a cost of $30,000, postponing the building of the roof until another appropriation could be maintained.

The government's greatest feat in post office building so far was the Chicago structure, begun twenty years ago, was finished just before the appropriation for a new and adequate building was obtained. It is the handsomest post office in the world and is admirably suited for storing pigeons.

Post office buildings are of various quaint designs, but can always be told by one peculiarity. If the stranger in a city discovers a rare and costly building placed well outside of the business district, where only two pedestrians and a sleeping cab horse are visible, he need have no hesitation about going in the great front doors and hunting for a place to buy a stamp. He is in a post office.—Geo. W. Fitch.

LOCAL ITEMS

Mrs. Tom Poole of Marsland visited Dr. and Mrs. Willis the first of the week. She returned Monday on 43.

A. L. Hungerford of Crawford, the well known land man, was in Alliance on business Monday.

Wm. Finney and son Leslie, of Marsland, came to Alliance Sunday night, returning home Monday noon.

J. L. O'Leary is proprietor of The Hub tailors and cleaners, a new tailoring shop at 405 Box Butte Avenue.

Mrs. Wm. Zyr, of Pincher Creek, Alberta, Canada, arrived the last of the week for a visit here with relatives. She was formerly Augusta Kroesing and lived twenty-one miles north of Alliance. She is a niece of August Hornburg of Alliance.

Lowry & Henry report receiving a shipment of five "Fours" and one "Six" Studebaker automobiles. Most of the cars have already been disposed of.

Miss Anna Senner of Norfolk is a new addition to the commercial club clerical force. She is experienced in commercial club work.

J. S. Pryor came in Sunday from twenty miles south of Lakeside, where he finished building a house for his son, Bud.

Asa Black and his mother, of Lakeside, were visitors in Alliance Sunday for the memorial day service.

Baseball Returns

The Herald's daily telegraph bulletin service now gives reports of the National, American, Federal and Western league games each day. The reports reach Alliance for the day's games at about 5:30 o'clock each day except Sunday.

Morehead Here Friday

Governor Morehead will be in Alliance on Friday, June 19, and will make several speeches. While here he will be the guest of the Alliance Fire Department and will address the boys at a special meeting that evening.

The governor will also attend a smoker to be given by the Eagles the same evening at their hall.

No Delegate This Year

At the special meeting of Post M. T. P. A., held at the Burlington Hotel Saturday afternoon, it was decided not to send a delegate from the local post to the national convention at Houston, Texas, this year.

The post has arranged to give a bowery dance during the stockmen's convention. The dance will be given in one of the local halls.

President Guthrie and Secretary Fisher of the commercial club met with the post and discussed plans for T. P. A. Day, the last day of the convention. The T. P. A. parade promises to be unique and the boys say they will win the prize.

New Presbyterian Pastor

The Executive Commission of Box Butte Presbytery has appointed Rev. W. M. Seel, of New Jersey, to be pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Alliance.

Rev. Seel will begin his work in the city on Sunday, June 14. He comes highly recommended, and it is hoped that the people of Alliance will give him and his family a most hearty welcome.

Many Attend Banquet

The dining room of the Burlington Hotel was crowded to its fullest capacity Tuesday evening to accommodate the large number of business men who attended the Commercial Club banquet. The program was excellent, the speech made by Flavel Wright of Scottsbluff being especially interesting. Mr. Wright is an orator of ability and his suggestions were well received.

Earl D. Mallery, vice president of the club, acted as toastmaster, work for which he is well fitted. The evening passed quickly and everyone was well entertained.

Talks were made by the secretary and several members of the club. The red and blue membership campaign teams made their boasts and promised to do their best.

Floats for Convention

Those who have agreed to have have floats in the parade during men's convention are:

Bee Hive
E. W. Ray
E. G. Laing

Sentenced to Penitentiary

Sheriff Cal Cox and County Attorney Eugene Burton are to be congratulated on their good work in the case of Frank Williams, the forger who stung E. T. Kibble of Alliance for $150 a short time ago, and who was captured in Cheyenne Saturday. Williams pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced on Monday by Judge Westover in a special term of court to from one to twenty years in the penitentiary.

Solly Woods, who shot the two Smith brothers last winter in a dispute over a card game, plead guilty and was sentenced to the penitentiary also.
